

Sister's Spin

God needs a reminder. In Sunday's reading about Noah, it struck me that God put that rainbow in the sky not to remind us of the covenant, but to remind Himself that the earth should not ever again be flooded. Often, especially in this season, we are reminded in various ways of the covenant God made with us. It is through activities such as going to Mass, praying in/with various items, and spiritual reading that we learn more about that covenant and come into greater conversation with God. If God needs a reminder, we surely do, too. What is your reminder of the covenant you made with God through your Baptism?
