"There is nothing in this world more to be prized than true friendship." These words come from Thomas Aquinas, and I wonder if he thought about this as the feast of St. Bartholomew was celebrated. Bartholomew had a great friend, Philip, who brought him to Jesus. While Bartholomew was a little skeptical about a person coming from Nazareth as the Messiah, Philip was very strong in wanting to bring his friend to meet Jesus. And so, Bartholomew, aka Nathaniel, becomes a true follower of Jesus because of the push he received from a friend. Our friends and friendships are special and we celebrate them in many ways. Hopefully, our friendships bring us closer to Jesus and we bring our friends closer to Him also. Who might you bring to Jesus today?
