As we continue the 2021 playoff run, the Blue Machine is proud to announce Saturday's faculty captain of the week. This individual will be able to join the team on the bus ride to the stadium, walk out to mid-field with the captains for the coin toss, and stay on the sideline for the remainder of the game. This faculty member loves learning and teaching students about all things chemistry. She has been part of the Newman staff for thirteen years. While being a part of the Newman family even longer considering she herself attended Newman, where she also excelled as an athlete. This individual teaches the students Chemistry 1, Earth Science, Honors Chemistry, Physical Science, and Physics. Along with being a teacher, she devotes her time to the students as an advisor to the Science Club and National Honor Society.
