

Newman Football 2021 Staff Honorary Captain

With the 2021 fall football season beginning tomorrow night, August 28th, the Newman Comets Football team is bringing back it's Faculty Captain of the Week. This individual will be able to join the team on the bus ride to the stadium, walk out to midfield with the captains for the coin toss, and stay on the sideline for the remainder of the game. Our first faculty captain of the 2021 season is going into his 5th year as part of the staff here at Newman. He can be seen in room 202 where he teaches young men and women the finer points in civic responsibility, American history, and a general sense of laws and other workings of the world. He does a great job proctoring exams, managing during lunch duty, and keeping Newman innovative in his classroom. Although his dad jokes can sometimes fall flat, his jump shot never seems to miss.

As the voice of the Comets on the radio, he certainly has a pride for this place. Today we salute a gentle giant who is a real man of genius. If you see him today, make sure to give him an honorary nice going, dude, and a solid head nod in the hallway. Please congratulate our week one honorary captain of the week, Mr. Andrew Olson.
