

Sister's Spin

August 4, 2021

Have you thanked a priest lately? Today would be a good day to do that. It is the feast of St. John Vianney, parish priest of the little town of Ars, and patron saint of parish priests. John Vianney did not do any great things during his years of priesthood, except sit in the confessional many hours of every day and bring many people back to God through his advice and care. During these pandemic times, while we thanked our doctors, and other health care workers, it is important to remember that our priests continued to look after the care of our souls: learning to live steam, going on sick calls, visiting the hospitals and still taking care of parish needs when funds and people were in short supply. So, thank a priest today with a little (or big) prayer and ask God to continue to send more laborers into His vineyard to bring the Good News to all of us.

Blessings,
Sister Marcianne
