

Sister's Spin

Thirty pieces of silver—I don't know how much that is in today's market, but in Jesus' time, it must have been a good sum. Judas was satisfied with it—enough for him to set up a time and place to betray Jesus. This Gospel reading on what I remember being called “Spy Wednesday” gives me pause to wonder—what are my thirty pieces of silver, for I, too, have sometimes betrayed Jesus by my choices. But, unlike Judas, there is a difference for me. I know and trust that Jesus will forgive me for my betrayals. Judas forgot about that. I pray that I will always remember to place my trust and hope in Jesus.
