

Sister's Spin

October 4, 2022

Today, Oct. 4th, the Church celebrates the feast of St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of Ecology. This day also marks the end of the Season of Creation, but not the end of caring for and enjoying the fruits of creation in this world. Hopefully, reflecting on the gifts of creation has made each of us more aware of the goodness of God in sharing His gifts with us, Then this season has done its job. On this feast day, it may be good to continue to reflect and to choose one way that you will sustain the life of God's creatures here on earth--perhaps drinking one less plastic bottle of water, or taking time to care for a plant, or just enjoying a look at the stars some night every week. Surely we can all come up with one small act that will save one big planet. For your enjoyment today, I invite you to look up The Canticle of Creation on YouTube, put on your headphones or listen with friends and family to the song/prayer of St. Francis and praise God with him.
