November 17, 2022

Earlier this year, a queen died. She was buried with great pageantry and many praised her as a great woman and ruler. Many watched her funeral, witnessed the bouquets of flowers and the tears shed by her family and subjects. Many years ago, a King also died. At his death, there were only words of scorn and ridicule, no bouquets of flowers in tribute, but gall and vinegar instead. Those who lined the streets taunted Him and had no time to mourn His loss. His burial was short of pageantry, done in haste and in a borrowed tomb. The queen, Elizabeth, will be remembered in history books, but the King, Jesus Christ, will reign supreme always through the power of the Resurrection. It is to Him that all glory, praise, and honor are still given today as his role as king is celebrated this coming Sunday. The feast of Christ the King reminds us that His Kingdom is more powerful than any other, and it will last forever. Once He reigned from a cross, but today He reigns in Heavenly Glory. Let us honor Him with an invitation to reign in our hearts always.
